LADY JACKETS VS WALSH

Lady Jacket Volleyball Blog

October 2, 2017

I was at a loss this past weekend thinking about what to share with you all this week. So, I hope some of my random thoughts will suffice! It was another week of matches and practices, and to be honest it was a tough one - including some intense practices and a tough loss against Kentucky Wesleyan on Saturday. Even so, I will share with you some of our highlights!

We won the "Knight of the Jackets Cup" match against Urbana last Tuesday and got to keep the trophy for another year in our team room. We are continually meeting with our small groups on a weekly basis and have been able to fellowship with each other outside of a volleyball setting. Each group is going through their own study and it has been so good to see each other grow spiritually. Our "White Out/Faith and Family" match last Friday against Trevecca drew a great crowd and we were able to get another G-MAC win in three sets in front of some awesome church families and friends.

And personally, God used our outreach to KWC players in a faithful way for me to start a relationship with one of their players. On another note, through hard weeks, through losses, and through frustrating performances, God has taught me something this week I thought I would share with you. He has helped me to learn to a greater degree that through everything He is ever-present. Jeremiah 23:24 says, "Can a man hide himself in secret places so that I cannot see him? declares the Lord. Do I not fill heaven and earth? declares the Lord." That is hard for us to grasp sometimes, especially when we are on the volleyball court. I know I am not constantly praying to God as I go up to attack a ball, but I have found myself in a conversational spirit with God during a volleyball game. I ask Him to help me check my attitude and my intent as I interact with my teammates and I ask Him to infiltrate our actions as a team as we react to circumstances in a match. It is this constant mind set that God is with us that is so difficult to attain, but what God wants so dearly from us, that this team can flourish in.

We will continue with the season and learn as we go. We have already grown in countless ways as a team, but I pray that this week we continue with this mind set; we serve and love an omnipresent God! We have a lot of season left, and our focus will only be keyed in even more this week than last week. We take each day and try to become better than we were the day before. Without a match until Friday and Saturday, hard work and rest will be the name of game this week! I've never seen a more dedicated team than this Cedarville Volleyball team and we will keep improving!!!

Thank you for listening to a couple things that have been on my heart, though they may be random, I hope it gives you a look into what God has been working on in us. I pray you have a blessed week.

Tonight's Match

The Cedarville University women's volleyball team hosts the Walsh University Cavaliers in Great Midwest Athletic Conference (G-MAC) action tonight in the Callan Athletic Center as part of the Annual Homecoming Weekend.

Cedarville, under the direction of tenth-year Head Coach Doug Walters (210-140), is 7-10 overall (5-2 G-MAC) after splitting a pair of league matches last weekend on the home court.

Walsh 7-1 overall with a 7-1 mark in the G-MAC which ties them for first in the East Division with CU's opponent tomorrow, Malone.

Leading the Lady Jacket front line attack is Gabby Olson - the G-MAC's 2016 Player of the Year. The 6-4 senior middle hitter tops the squad with 205 kills and 73 blocks. Olson is second on the team with 21 service aces.

The squad's other senior, outside hitter Krissy Pratt, ranks second with 162 kills and 206 digs. Freshman middle hitter Lauren Willow is third on the team with 138 kills while recording a second-best 68 blocks.

Rookie setter Sierra Schuitema leads CU with 376 assists while classmate Lindsey Bray adds 254 assists in the Lady Jacket 6-2 offensive system. Bray tops the service ace category with 22.

Leading the Walsh offense is outside hitter Lauren Loucks. The 5-11 sophomore has 204 kills with a .242 attack percentage.

Junior setter Olivia Zanolli has tallied 662 assists (11.03/set) while classmate Amanda Adoranti leads the back line with 308 digs to go with a team-best 26 service aces.

Lauren Willow

Head Coach Kassie Kadera is in her third season with the Walsh University Cavaliers (34-41).

Walsh leads the all-time series with CU by a 35-17 margin. The teams last met in 2011 with the Cavs claiming victory both home and away plus a 3-0 sweep over the Lady Jackets in the finals of the Ohio Independent Championship in North Canton, Ohio.
